Megan is a Medway-based printmaker whose screenprints and risographs explore the tension between positivity and threat. Using collage from cut-out newspaper letters reminiscent of ransom notes, she reworks familiar uplifting phrases to reveal the unsettling edge of toxic positivity and the ways kindness can become coercive.

I love silkscreen and collagraph, but my biggest printmaking love is linocut. Inspired by British folklore, traditions, creatures and critters (real or imagined), in my work you'll meet birds, hares, the May Queen and the 'Woodwoose' wild man of the woods. I use the fabulous print facilities at Intra Arts to realise my work.

Thu 16, 12:00-20:00

The inherent workiness of hand-building appeals to me. Forms created become my canvas where glazes are layered, fired, and re-fired. For MOSAF 26 I'll be selling pieces from my studio at greatly reduced prices to make space for new work. Come along and grab a bargain.
